o'clock p. m. What Dr. Bliss Said this Morning. Dr. Bliss informed a representative of THE CRITIC this morning, with a smiling face, that the President's pulse is 96. For some reason—perhaps the storm—he was a trifle restless during the early part of the night, but slept well during the latter part, and awoke this morning feeling very much refreshed, a little more so than at any other time thus for. The teachers are some content of the cont time thus far. The tenderness and sore-ness in the legs appeared to a slight degree and perhaps contributed to his restlessness but that soon disappeared,

The Situation Satisfactory. Secretaries Windom and Kirkwood and Postmaster-General James were the first to call this morning. They had come and gone by 9 o'clock. Their smiling faces showed their satisfaction over the situation, and that they were encouraged by the morning bullistic. letin. There were very few other visitors up to noon, and the crowd around the gates has diminished materially.

The President's Friends Happy.

The President's Friends Happy.
President Wm. Hinsdale, of Hiram College, of which the President was formerly the head, and who is now one of his most intimate friends, was among the new arrivals at the White House yesterday.

Mr. Phillips, of Mentor, Ohio, who has been spending a few days at the White House, in company with President Hinsdale, Dr. Boynton and Marshal Henry, left for his Western home this morning, bearing loving messages from the President and family to the President's mother and the younger boys at the Mentor farm, together with the latest intelligence of the President's condition, which is now considered more and more favorable.

How the President Endured the Storm.

The temperature in the President's room has been reduced several degrees—not by artificial means, either. A thunder storm yesterday afternoon, accompanied by heav rainfall, cooled the air and made it decid mediately upon learning of the attempted assassination, returned to Pittsburg last night.

Col. Arthur B. Wood, formerly chief clerk of the Consul Bureau of the State Department, and now consul of the United States at Belfast, leaves for Europe this week to assume the portfolio of his consultar office.

An Amusing Incident. Billy Crump the steward, relates an amusing incident. He is the President's most faithful nurse. The physicians do not allow the patient to partake of water to a allow the patient to partake of water to a great extent. Yesterday afternoon Crump gave him his chicken broth. After the President had taken it he looked toward Crump and said: "Well Billy, what next?" Crump did not take the hint, and the President said: "Is it medicine, food, or water, Billy?" Crump says he could not refuse the wistful look of the President when he the wistful look of the President when he said "water," and gave him a little. The grateful response of the President was to clap his hand softly as if applauding Crump for his kindness.

The President's Splendid Physical

As every little incident concerning the President is interesting, the following, with reference to his splendid physical condition, is related by Colonel Corbin: "I think that a very important factor in this case is the fine physical condition of the President. He is very uniformly and well developed, and it is a matter of pride with him to keep himself in fine form. He is a very companionable man with his children. On the morning of the shooting, as the family were getting up, the second son, Harry, who is Condition. getting up, the second son, Harry, who is somewhat of an athlete, came into his somewhat of an athlete, came into his father's room while he was yet partially undressed, and, with a run, placed his hands on the middle of the bed and made a handspring over it. Turning to his father he said: 'Would you not like to be able to do that?' 'Oh, I guess I could if I tried,' the President replied in a pleasant way, and after a bit of bantering back and forth between father and son, the President himself did the feat as neatly as his son had done it. This was the very bed to which he was brought back in a few hours wounded in a way that would kill any ordinary man."

A Congratulatory Letter.

Among the many congratulatory letters addressed to the President and received at the White House is one from a well-known gentleman of the Treasury Department, which reads as follows: which reads as follows:

"As one of the least of Stalwart Republicans, I congratulate you upon your remarkable pluck, the nerve of your heroic wife, the skill of the physicians in charge, and the prayers of the millions of Christian people throughout the civilized world. Never was man prayed for as you are. May you live, and heal your wounded party as rapidly and as surely as you are healed. 'God reigns' and the Government at Washington still lives!'"

Dressing the Wounds. Dr. D. W. Bliss says that they are now dressing the President's wound twice a day. The discharge of pus this morning was very slight, not over twenty or thirty drops, and it was of a healthy character. He could not, of course, say from what distance in the wound it had percolated. Heretofore the wound was only dressed once a day. Antiseptic dressings are used. Owing to the warm weather the suppuration from the wound has slightly increased.

the wound has slightly increa No Alarm or Uncasiness is felt at the rise of the President's pulsation since the morning bulletin, as it is one of the natural courses in such cases. The pulse is just the same as at the correspond-ing hour of yesterday.

Sleeping Peacefully. The President sleep most of the forenoon. His appetite continues good, but the doctors are still afraid to gratify him beyond a certain limit. He was allowed to masticate a small piece of tenderloin steak this morning, but not to swallow it. His allowance of food is two ounces of milk, beef tea or chicken broth every two hours, making a total of twenty-four ounces of food in twenty-four hours. The physicians are very particular as to the food, and only allow him such as is certain not to irritate or in any way disturb the liver.

Who Arrested Guiteau.

Who Arrested Guiteau.

The half-a-dozen individuals who claim to have arrested the assassin, Guiteau, have all appeared before and been examined by District Attorney Corkhill. These include policeman Kearney, special depot officer Scott, ticket seller Parke, and three others. They all claim to have been the first to lay hands on Guiteau. The latter says, however, that Kearney was the first to seize him. Plans of the interior of the depot, to be used at the trial and other matters, have be used at the trial and other matters, have been submitted to Guiteau, who very coolly aided the District Attorney in making corrections where an error appeared. Dr. Hamilton's Present Opinion of the Case.

New York, July 8.—Dr. Hamilton says if President Garfield's physicians are furnished with conclusive proof that his liver is injured they will be forced to consider the case as of additional gravity. Although a wound inflicted on the liver would increase the President's dayer very much it. crease the President's danger very much, it would not necessarily kill him. People have frequently recovered after having been shot through the liver. While admitting the President's symptoms to be most en-couraging, Dr. Hamilton says, the question of his recovery could only be positively determined after weeks, and perhaps months, criminal code treats premeditated houicide in all cases alike, irrespective of the victim, murder being visited by the greatest penalty. Perhaps no distinction between one case and another could be founded on the public relations held by the person slain. But in case of attempt to murder broad distinctions can be made between assailing the life of an individual and an attempt to take a life of special value to the whole people. The shocking occurrence of Saturday I think demands that the definition and murishment of assaults sinced at high think demands that the definition and punishment of assaults aimed at high executive officers, whether successful or not, should be made thoroughly rigorous. The man who attempts the life of the President, if morally responsible, commits an offense which the Nation ought to guard against and punish by the exertion of all the power civilized nations may employ. I suggest this as deserving consideration. My profound sympathics are with the President and with all of you every hour. The conflict of reports keeps hope and fear striving with each other, with nothing stable except faith and trust that the worst is overpassed. I wish

NEW YORK SENATORS.

Two Ballots To-Day - No Choice Yet ---- What is Expected of the Caucus

Two Ballots To-Dny—No Choice Yet—What is Expected of the Caucus This Afternoon.

Albany, N. Y., July S.—The joint convention resumed its session at 12 o'clock. The ballot for a successor of Conkling resulted as follows: Total vote, 150; necessary to a choice, 76; Conkling, 32; Wheeler, 38; Laphana, 12; Cornell, 8; Rogers, 6; Crowley, 3; Folger, 1; Potter (Dean.), 50. Total, 150.

The yote for Platt's successor was as follows: Depew, 51; Kernan (Dem.), 50; Crowley, 18; Chapman, 4; Evarts, 1; Cornell, 20; Fish, 1; Daniels, 1; Wheeler, 1; Tremain, 1; North, 1; Lapham, 1. Total, 150.

The total second joint ballot for Conkling's successor resulted as follows: Whole vote cast 150—Wheeler, 42; Conkling, 32; Potter, 50; Crowley, 2; Cornell, 5; Lapham, 12; Rogers, 6; Folger, 1.

The total joint ballot for Platt's successor resulted: Whole number of votes 150—Depew, 51; Kernan, 50; Talcott, 1; Lapham, 1; Chapman, 4; Crowley, 18; Cornell, 19; North, 1; Evarts, 1; Daniels, 1; Fish, 1; Wheeler, 1; Tremain, 1.

After the second ballot the convention adjourned until to-morrow.

ourned until to-morrow. It seems settled that the Half-breed and Featherhead caucus this afternoon will se-lect two caucus candidates for the Senatorial vacancies, probably Depew and another. It the Stalwarts refuse to attend and hold out a day or two longer, an adjournment will probably casue; but if the Stalwarts go over there will be an election. No Stalwart will admit any intention to attend the caucus.

Current Rumors in Wall Street. [Special Dispatch to THE CRITIC.]
NEW YORK, July 8.—The points to buy in the stock market were about as numerous and various as ever up-town last night, including Western Union, D. L. W., the North Westerns, Union Pacific, Central Pacific and even the Elevateds.

My Dear Sir: In the abhorrence with which all decent men alike shudder at the attempt to murder the President, I have given thought to a matter to which your attention may or may not have turned. Our criminal code treats premeditated homicide in all cases alike, irrespective of the victim, murder being visited by the greatest penalty. Perhaps no distinction between one case and another could be founded on the public relations held by the person slain. But in case of attempt to murder broad distinctions can be made between assailing the life of an individual and an attempt to take a life of special value to the whole people.

Pacific and even the Elevateds. It was stated by parties who claimed to be posted, that Sage would probably vote on more than 50,000 shares of Metropolitan to-day, and henceforward Sage, Gould, Dillon and Sloan would control the property.

Their relations with Mr. Field are claimed to be entirely cordial, and the arrangements for operating the lines are sure to be in perfect harmony. The indications also are that the Manhattan Company will continue to be utilized. The last suit, which was brought here to dissolve the latter corporation, has been withdrawn from court.

Vice-President Arthur.

Vice-President Arthur.

Though Vice-President Arthur is not a frequent visitor at the White House he has arranged it so that he will hear from there every hour or so. A copy of each bulletin is sent to his residence as soon as issued. His private secretary, Mr. Reed, is constantly at the White House and receives communications from Private Secretary Brown. The Vice-President was expected to call this afternoon, but he did not, as Senator Jones, at whose house he has been stopping, has been taken siek. General Arthur does not propose to leave for New York to-night as has been rumored. He will remain several days.
